Crown Glassware

Crown Glassware was the first company in Australia to develop glassware for the hospitality industry.

More than 90 years ago with local hotels, Crown developed the first draught beer glass shapes which were known in the industry as Conical and Washington.

A push for legislated weights and measured glassware in the late 80's saw Crown Glassware become the first company to provide a correctly specified glassware range to hospitality, which later became the industry standard. Crown Glassware were also the first company to introduce the embossing of weights and measured capacities on the base of glasses.

Crown Glassware, was also the first glass manufacturer to produce a nucleated glass for the presentation of draught beer with "Headmaster" becoming the industry leader.

Through this long history, Crown Glassware has always had a close association and consultation with the hospitality industry which has enabled Crown Glassware to meet industry standards and deliver high quality products with value for money.

Within Crown Glassware you will find a variety of styles from Classic to Contemporary, encompassing stemware, tumblers and accessory items.
